SM2911	Knockupple, long cairn 1460m N of	Prehistoric ritual and funerary: long cairn	245811	680708	SM	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	HES Scoping Opinion. The monument is a chambered long cairn dating to the Neolithic period, and probably built and in use between 3800 BC and 2500 BC. It survives as a turf covered stone mound which is roughly trapezoidal in plan. The cairn measures about 13m in length by around 7m in width at the east end, narrowing to about 1.5m at the west end. There is a façade at the monument's eastern end defined by four large boulders in a slightly concave arrangement forming a forecourt area. Behind the façade are two side slabs which would have formed part of a chamber. Site visit and detailed assessment required
SM2329	Lang Cairn, chambered cairn and cairn, Gallangad Muir	Prehistoric ritual and funerary: cairn (type uncertain)	245766	681473	SM	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	HES Scoping Opinion. The monument comprises a well-preserved chambered long cairn of the Clyde Group and a round cairn. The long cairn is trapezoidal on plan and measures about 60m in length by up to 15m in width and is aligned ESE-WNW. At the E end is a concave facade of orthostats with dry-walling between. The largest stone (about 2m high) was re-erected in about 1960. The forecourt appears to have been blocked in antiquity. In the centre of the facade are two portal stones, and behind these (but askew) is a single compartment, now covered over. There are two lateral chambers within the body of the cairn. At the W end of the long cairn is a round cairn about 8m in diameter and 0.9m in height. Site visit and detailed assessment required

Impact possible in principle	Visited for Stage 1 setting assessment. There is a possible round cairn about 25' diameter and 4-5' high. Not a prominent, or readily visible, landscape feature beyond 50m distance. Local prominence would not be affected through competition with proposed turbines located over 2km to the south. No concerns about appreciation in longer-range views. The cairn is experienced in its local landscape setting on a low E-W ridge and is unrelated to the higher ground to the S were the wind farm would be sited. Visual change in views from the cairn would not affect asset significance

Table 3 Heritage Assets Within 5 km Outer Study Area

Ref	Name	Description	E	N	Status	ZTV	Significance	Setting
	Antonine Wall World Heritage Site		275462	676737	WHS	Partial visibility	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	Section of WHS within 5km of ISA lies outwith ZTV. Nearest location with theoretical visibility lies over 13km away. At this distance blades tips of up to 5 turbines may be visible. At a distance of 20km up to 13 turbines may be visible. At the closest distances (Milngavie), the WHS is located in built up area, where current buildings likely screen any longer distance views. At >17km distance (Balmore Haughs), the setting of the wall is more open, focussing as it does over the floodplains of the River Kelvin. It is considered that views of turbines on hills 17km distant would not interfere with an understanding, appreciation and experience of the wall and its relationship with the river at this location, and more generally the setting of the wall as a defensive feature intended to control the surrounding area from attacking forces. No effect anticipated upon asset significance
GDL00042	Balloch Castle		239004	682931	GDL	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	HES Scoping Opinion. Vested for Stage 1 setting assessment. This 19th century imitation 'castle' is set up on a slope in attractive parkland overlooking the S end of Loch Lomond. The main windows of the house face S and W. The wind farm (c.5km SE of the house) would not be seen from the house or in views looking up at the house from the GDL, due to extensive mature woodland on the upper slopes of the GDL behind the house. There are views of Balloch Castle from the opposite shore of Loch Lomond around Duck Bay from where the wind farm would be seen on the skyline behind the GDL. The experience from the castle and within the GDL would be unaffected but there is potential for impact on significance in the view from Duck Bay. Detailed assessment required.
GDL00306	Overtoun House		242120	675959	GDL	Partial visibility	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	HES Scoping Opinion. Needs a more thorough exploration of the GDL to properly understand how the house is experienced in its parkland setting and where there might be views worth illustrating. There is public access (Local council and Woodland Trust) to a network of marked paths and the estate is well-used by the local community.
SM3385	Balloch Castle,earthwork,Loch Lomond Park	Secular: castle	238794	682598	SM	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	HES Scoping Opinion. Balloch Castle was once the property of the Earls of Lennox, and possessed by them until 1652 when it was purchased by Sir John Colquhoun of Luss. In the 15th century the Castle became the property of the family of Stewart, Lords Darnley, who were afterwards regranted the title of Earls of Lennox. By 1511 it had been replaced by Inchmurrin as "the chief messuage" of the Earldom of Lennox; and after this period Balloch was gradually deserted. Nothing now remains except a mound surrounded by a ditch. This is not a prominent monument and is appreciated from its local proximity only. Historically, the castle operated in a very large political sphere of influence. This is not readily apparent today such that distant development would affect the ability to understand and appreciate the historical significance. The relationship with the later 19th century castle would remain unaffected. No impact upon asset significance.
SM2908	Sheep Hill,fort,Auchentorlie	Prehistoric domestic and defensive: fort	243481	674384	SM	Partial visibility	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to	View from very highest point may afford visibility of blade tips, however these views do not contribute to significance of fort, which was positioned to occupy a defensive position with steep sided

SM2281	Stockie Muir, long cairn 2000m NNW of Burncrooks Reservoir	Prehistoric ritual and funerary: long cairn	247929	681311	SM	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	Orientated WNW-ESE (towards ISA). Site visit and detailed assessment required
CA407	KNOXLAND SQUARE, DUMBARTON		240426	674984	CA	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	Confined urban environment. Glimpsed open views looking south (away from ISA). Distant hills do not contribute significantly to character. Built up, with short range views of local vernacular architecture, buildings screen long distance views. Views towards ISA are impeded in all areas of the square by 3 and 4 story tenement buildings. CA is appreciated from within its boundaries. No effect anticipated upon CA character
CA674	DUMBARTON TOWN CENTRE		239697	675372	CA	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	Urban setting. Distant hills do not contribute significantly to character. Built up, with short range views of local vernacular architecture, buildings screen long distance views. CA is appreciated from within its boundaries. No effect anticipated upon CA character
LB1125	WOODBANK HOUSE WITH GARDEN BUILDING		238188	681758	Cat A LB	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	HES Scoping Opinion. Visited for Stage 1 assessment. Located 4.7km W of ISA with SE aspect. The house became a hotel in the 1930s, and became the Hamilton House Hotel in the 1980s. The house was featured in Scottish Civic Trust BUILDINGS AT RISK (1994). This house (which is derelict) is currently hidden by trees and large shrubs that surround its garden. The impression is that it might have once enjoyed open views but no longer does (original 18th century house faces ENE, major 19th century addition faces SSE). Even if this was more open, trees and rhododendrons along E edge of garden would still screen proposed turbines from view as this is SE from the house at a range 5km. No impact anticipated upon asset significance
LB1135	ALEXANDRIA, GILMOUR STREET, MASONIC TEMPLE		238829	680135	Cat A LB	Within ZTV	No effect predicted upon asset significance.
LB115	STRATHLEVEN HOUSE		239608	678118	Cat A LB	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	HES Scoping Opinion. Visited for Stage 1 assessment. Still a fine country house but now converted into offices and somewhat divorced from its original setting, being located in an industrial estate. Immediate surroundings still green with large numbers of trees and main designed view looking S survives (more or less). Proposed turbines would be E or NE from the house, well away from axial views to or from the house. Mature woodland to E of house would entirely screen turbines from view. Visual relationship with listed dovecot unaffected. No impact anticipated upon asset significance

View of hills does not contribute to significance of dovecot, which is understood in terms of its relationship with Strathleven house. No effect predicted to asset significance
LB1095	BONHILL PARISH CHURCH WITH BOUNDARY WALL AND GRAVEYARD		239489	679625	Cat B LB	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	Visited for Stage 1 setting assessment, Church with tower. The church is experienced in a very secluded setting with buildings and mature trees on the rising ground to the E obstructing any chance of views towards the proposed turbines. No visual change predicted. No effect anticipated on asset significance
LB1095	BONHILL PARISH CHURCH WITH BOUNDARY WALL AND GRAVEYARD		239481	679593	Cat B LB	Within ZTV	No effect predicted upon asset significance.	Graveyard to LB1095

LB1127	WESTERTON HOUSE WITH GATEPIERS AND WALLED GARDEN		241286	683487	Cat B LB	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	Visited for Stage 1 setting assessment. Mapping suggests that a view from house towards walled garden may be designed in the direction of the proposed turbines. This house cannot be seen from the public road because it is surrounded by mature ornamental woodland belts. The house faces SW and the estate woodland appears to frame a channelled view downhill to the SW. Proposed turbines would be at least 3km to the SE, well off the axial view and probably entirely screened by woodland. Probably no visual change

Impact possible in principle	Visited for stage 1 setting assessment. The church is experienced in its local urban setting with adjacent housing, light industry and a busy road. The spire is modest in scale and forms only a local landmark. There are partial views SE towards the hills from the immediate vicinity of the church - some turbines are likely therefore to be visible. The visual change would not affect significance of church.

GDL00180	Finlaystone House		236388	673551	GDL	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	The surrounding landscape to the south is farmed while, to the west, lie the housing and industrial developments of Port Glasgow; Langbank is to the east. To the north, across the Firth of Clyde, lies Dumbarton Rock and the town of Dumbarton beyond which views are gained to the Kilpatrick Hills. Views can be gained along and across the Clyde, particularly from the terraced garden. From the A814, on the northern shore of the Firth of Clyde, views can be gained across to Finlaystone and the woods and house are of some significance from the A8(T) along the boundary of the site. Finlaystone House stands on a cliff above the Firth of Clyde surrounded by lawns. Site visit and detailed assessment required.
GDL00162	Duntreath Castle		253884	680882	GDL		No visibility
GDL00183	Formakin		241170	671205	GDL	Partial visibility	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	Formakin House itself lies outwith ZTV. Formakin Estate lies in undulating ground between the River Clyde and the Renfrewshire Hills. Outcrops of rock frequently occur throughout the policies and the ground rises from 77' (22.5m) by Dargavel Burn to 238' (72.5m) at the top of the escarpment north of the house. Land around Formakin is mostly farmed with livestock and a mixture of arable crops. Small woodland copses are found on the steeper and poorer ground. There are few views out of the site but from the escarpment there are long views across the Clyde to the Kilpatrick Hills and the Vale of Leven. The house lies at the centre of the policies sheltered from the east by Paddock Craig escarpment. Only view of turbines would be from high-point within GDL, which are not designed views. Any view of the house would be southwards, in opposite direction. No effect anticipated upon asset significance
GDL00329	Ross Priory		241589	687529	GDL	Partial visibility	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	HES Scoping Opinion. Priory lies outwith ZTV and wirelines generated for stage 1 setting assessment demonstrate that from the water's edge looking back towards the priory, despite the ZTV indicating visibility, it is only <c.2m of one blade tip that would be visible, which would not in reality be perceptible at a distance of 6.8km. Views are gained across the loch to the mountains beyond providing a magnificent setting to the designed landscape. These northward views would remain unaffected. The situation of the site is secluded, nestling on the low shores of Loch Lomond. It can be seen from the loch and the village of Balmaha on the east shore.

								From these locations, blade tips would be visible at a distance of c.10km which again are unlikely to be perceptible in reality. No effect predicted upon asset significance.
GDL00330	Rossdhu		235871	688423	GDL	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	The setting enables views along Loch Lomond in both directions and across the loch to Ben Lomond. The surrounding landscape of loch and islands, with its backdrop of hills, is important to the designed landscape. Views into the park from the landward side are limited by the high policy walls but Rossdhu is an attractive landscape feature from the loch. Rossdhu House is set to the north of the parkland on a small promontory which is surrounded on three sides by the waters of Loch Lomond. A previous stronghold was set further to the west on the same promontory but the new site of the present house enables fine views of Loch Lomond and the islands. Site visit and detailed assessment required.

Impact possible in principle	The site is located on a SE-facing slope, with the ISA located to the NE. Views NE unlikely to have been significant in placement of monument. No effect predicted upon asset significance.

SM1652	Whitemoss Roman Fort, 175m SW of Rosarymount	Prehistoric ritual and funerary: ritual deposit; Roman: fort	241820	672115	SM	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	The fort occupies the top of a promontory that rises above the surrounding landscape; the slope falls off steeply on three sides with a more gradual slope to the SE of the fort. Fort likely placed to control movement along adjacent road, and potentially the Clyde. Relationship with Antonine Wall apparent, since excavations have shown they are contemporary. No strategic relationship with views of the Kilpatrick Hills. Relationship with Clyde (including views of the fort from the river) and with contemporary sites would remain unaffected. No effect predicted upon asset significance.

Impact possible in principle	Prominence of cairn would be unaffected by development over 6km away to east, beyond Alexandria. No effect predicted upon asset significance.
SM3312	Catter Law, motte	Secular: motte	247232	687129	SM	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	Prominence of motte would be unaffected by development over 6km away to south. Motte's relationship with adjacent Endrick Water unaffected. No effect predicted upon asset significance.
SM3318	Barochan Hill, Roman fort 440m NNW of Barochan House	Roman: fort	241399	669046	SM	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	The monument occupies the summit of Barochan Hill, at a height of approximately 70m above sea level, with views towards the River Clyde around 4km to the N. No strategic relationship with views of the Kilpatrick Hills. Relationship with River Gryfe would remain unaffected. No effect predicted upon asset significance.
SM4326	Bishopton, aqueduct NW of	Industrial: bridge, viaduct, aqueduct	242410	672456	SM	Within ZTV	No effect predicted upon asset significance.
SM5275	Kilmaronock Castle	Secular: castle	245501	687715	SM	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance.	Tower House intended as locally prominent and fortified monument. Possible relationship with Endrick Water and Kilmaronock Church. No relationship with views of the Kilpatrick Hills. Relationship river and church would remain unaffected. No effect predicted upon asset

SM5404	Kilmahew Castle	Secular: castle	235171	678666	SM		No visibility
SM6341	Cameron Home Farm, chambered cairn 720m S of	Prehistoric ritual and funerary: chambered cairn	237132	682135	SM	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	The cairn measures 68m in length by about 18m in width at the SE end, tapering to 6m, and ranges in height from 0.2-1.5m. Orientated towards ISA. The cairn is situated within woodland with current experience unrelated to long distance views. Originally sited likely to overlook the valley to the east, this is today entirely built up with Alexandria, West Dunbartonshire. It is impossible to understand whether the monument was sited to focus upon the hills 7km to the west, or a contemporary landscape in the intervening valley. The presence of the proposed turbines, whilst introducing a visual change in the wider setting, would not affect the ability to speculate on the cairn's alignment and intentional landscape positioning
SM6576	Inchmurrin Castle, castle and kiln-barn	Secular: castle	237304	686310	SM	Within ZTV	Wider landscape setting of asset contributes to significance. Impact possible in principle	HES Scoping Opinion. (WATER) The monument consists of the remains of a castle, documented from 1393, together with the remains of a kiln-barn which stands to the N of the castle ruins. The castle stands on a rock outcrop with steep natural slopes to the NW and SE. The main block of the castle, with walls built of mortared rubble, measures 36m NE-SW by 10m NW-SE, within ditches a short distance to the NE and the SW. There are traces of other structures, and possibly of the enclosure wall of a small courtyard, between the main block and the SW ditch. The main block of the castle is divided into 3 rooms. Fragments of the NW and SE walls remain upstanding to a significant height, but the window in the NW wall and the masonry immediately surrounding it appear to have been reconstructed in relatively modern times. The monument is not a prominent castle, comprising as it does as a series of relatively low ruins, it is not experienced beyond its immediate vicinity. Although likely constructed to control or monitor movement within the loch in the vicinity, this is no longer apparent. The monument is not clearly evident from the water or surrounding loch banks, as it is overgrown and surrounded by modern farm buildings. Any views towards distant hills, 7.7km away, are incidental. A view of proposed turbines on the horizon would not interfere with the ability to understand and appreciate the position of the ruined castle on an island to control movement within it. No effect anticipated upon asset significance.

Impact possible in principle	The monument lies on a prominent ridge at around 200m OD. The ISA is located nearly 7km to the west. The fort is placed to dominate the local area, however this area of influence does not extend to include views of the ISA. There are more prominent hills located in the interim area, if this were the case. No effect predicted upon asset significance.

Relationship with adjacent watercourses would remain unaffected. No effect predicted upon asset significance.

Impact possible in principle	The monument is a fort dating to the Iron Age (between about 800 BC and 500 AD). It is visible as a series of earthworks defining an oval enclosure within a sub-circular outer enclosure and the remains of up to 15 roundhouses. The monument surmounts a relatively steep hill at about 240m above sea level with the River Clyde visible in the distance. Originally sited likely to overlook the valley to the east, this is today entirely built up with Alexandria. The presence of the proposed turbines, whilst introducing a visual change in the wider setting, would not affect the ability to understand and appreciate the fort's prominent position overlooking the River Leven valley. Monument prominence unaffected over a distance of 5.5km. No effect anticipated upon asset significance.

							Avenue is a dominant landscape feature. The White Cart Water and the core parklands within its flood plain are also important scenic elements within the central areas of the designed landscape. More generally, the open grounds and extensive woodlands throughout the park create visual interest and scenic contrast with adjacent landscapes in longer distance views. Within the designed landscape, thick shelterbelts create areas of more intimate scale (including around the Burrell Museum) and restrict views of surrounding areas. Covering around 470 hectares, the designed landscape is surrounded by urban districts of Glasgow, built up from the later 19th century. No designed relationship with distant hills. Theoretical visibility is in reality not likely.

This represents a general transition from the populated lowlands to the south to the more rugged moorlands to the north and northwest, and a series of hill ranges, including the Mugdock, Strathblane, Campsie and Kilpatrick hills. Views north across the reservoirs hint at this upland landscape beyond, with the open water of the reservoirs seen against a hill backdrop, accentuated by planting and woodland cover. Meanwhile, views south from the higher ground between the reservoirs encompass a long and low horizon in which the Glasgow conurbation is visible. In addition to the panoramic views described above, the different landscape elements combine to produce a surprising variety of views in, around and across the reservoirs. Among the main defining features in scenic terms are the mature tree-lines, avenues and woodland belts, which enclose and

The planting also provides the setting for structural components, most notably the very formal gauge basin architecture at the northern tips of each reservoir. Up to 12 turbines may be visible at a distance of over 12km, however at this distance will appear relatively small parts of the distant hills which is not sufficient to result on a significant distraction from the designed elements described above.
